

12419

TO THE MEMORY OF HENRY GEORGE:-

He thought, that other men might think aright;
He saw what other men had failed to see;
He gave to burdened men a ray of light,
To guide their weary feet to liberty.
He strove with spirit unprovoked,
That economic ills might cease:
He lived that other men might die unyoked;
He died that other men might live in peace.

Robert L. Hubbard

August 23rd, 1923.