Dear Mr. Parsons:

Under separate cover I am sending you a book "For the Good of All", by Gilbert M. Tucker, a personal friend of mine.

In speaking of the struggle for liberty, for freedom of conscience and respect for individual life, Gilbert Tucker writes, "these aspirations are ours because they are right and because they have origin in principles and beliefs which underlie Christianity and all religions worthy of the name."

Making his deductions from this starting point, I feel sure you will find his work interesting as well as instructive.

Sincerely yours,

O. K. Dorn
